SPLENDID FIRMS FOR LEASE.

For Robert J. Breckinridge, propose to lease his two magnificent Fayette farms. There are no finer tracts of land in Kentucky; the quality of the soil is very superior; the improvements are fine; they are situated in neighborhoods remarkable for the culture, hospitality and morality of the people; are of easy access, and in every respect, splendid. Indeed, we do not know of two estates anywhere that offer finer features.

In addition to their artisanship, we are pleased to state that Mrs. Levy has effected an engagement with Mr. Wm. Carlton, the celebrated Irish comedian and vocalist, who adds another brilliant star to his combination troupe.

He can be engaged to appear at the Louisville Fair, and will make his appearance before the public Saturday evening, October 3, Mr. Carlton, and his brilliant comedian and artistes, will be sure to add to the interest of the fair.

—The Synod of Kentucky meets at the First Presbyterian Church, in this city, Wednesday, October 11th.

The trustees of Center College will meet in this city on October 14th.

—The tobacoo Tiger, J. S. Neal and Mary Ann left Pittsburgh Wednesday for this city, with a hundred and fifty thousand dollars of coal.

—The Jewish festival of Soskoh or Fount of Festes, commenced yesterday and will last eight days.

—October is with us:

—"Sofonis, be faithful to view;

—"Monarchs, be faithful to defend;

—"Numbers of our citizens are attempting the fairat Lexington.

—New York eats three million dollars worth of oysters annually. Louisville about one-half of that amount.

—There were eighty acres of people of the Democratic mass meeting in New Albany yesterday.

—The red, round, hunter's moon is not shining beautifully for us at night.

—In October, at Murphyville, Marion, had a fine saddle horse a few days ago. He was standing in a stable ading a gray house where a quantity of rye was stored and got to a sack and eat his fill. As soon as he drank water the grain swelled and the work of death was performed.

—C. B. Ives, of Cynthiana, has sold three thousand barrels of whisky to Ives, Beecher & Co., of New York. Ives are scarce, and that is the value of the crop.
